(St. Paul, MN, November 18, 2026)— Military Family Books, a preferred bulk supplier of resources to government, education, and healthcare organizations, signed a nonexclusive agreement to distribute first responder training resources published by the Jones & Bartlett Learning (JBL) Public Safety Group to the US military and government marketplace.

"We are adding these titles in response to a growing need for quality first responder resources in the communities we serve," says Alexander Pavlicin, Director of Operations for Military Family Books. "Our initial focus is on organization-level support for first responder roles within the US military; veterans transitioning into first responder and public safety roles following active duty; and local, state, and federal public safety agencies that need firefighting, paramedic, and water rescue training materials."

Adding JBL Public Safety Group's publications to the Military Family Books catalog increases access and simplifies acquisition of training materials organizations need to support mission readiness and maintain professional certifications of those serving on the front lines of defense and emergency response.

Featured training resources can be purchased online at MilitaryFamilyBooks.com/First-Responder or by appointment at the Military Family Books showroom in Oakdale, Minnesota. Additional curated resources may be ordered by contacting the Military Family Books team at orders@militaryfamilybooks.com.
